We understand the engine of the Hongkong Marine had been repaired entirely new management, and that on Saturday afternoon dinner will be served on the promenade deck, weather permitting.

An order has been issued by the Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter of England for all Presidents, Lodges and Chapters to be in mourning for six months from July 1st, on account of the death of Lord Carnarvon, pro G.M. and pro Grand Z.

The Straits Times says H. M. S. Penzance is expected on the China Station from the West Coast of Africa to replace H. M. S. Minerva, which has been ordered to England. The Penzance is a vessel of the same class and armament as the Minerva.

To-morrow morning, between 9 and 10.30 o'clock, the steam launch carrying the Bath flag will call alongside any vessel, hoisting code pennant C, to convey men ashore to 11 a.m. service at St. Peter's (Seamen's) Church, returning about 12.30.

A telegram has been received at Singapore by the local secretary of the Royal Australian Syndicate that the boxes of specimens sent down to Australia by Mr. Bibby contained 51 ounces of gold to the ton. These samples were of course sent on the leaders, and the result can only be taken to imply more than it states.

At the Harbour Office yesterday morning, before Mr. E. Murray, Inspector of Harbours, the General Secretary of the Royal Australian Union, Capt. G. George, was charged with refusal of duty on the 7th inst. The man pleaded they were tired. His Worship gave them the option of going aboard to "turn to" or go to prison for six weeks, and they decided to do the latter.

Mr. F. C. White, Collector and Magistrate of Jelbun, met his death on Sunday, the 27th July, by a dreadful accident. A correspondent writing to our Singapore contemporaries says that Mr. White, being a keen sportsman, had during his short residence at Jelbun organised a small pack of dogs for the purpose of hunting pig and deer, and was out with his party on the 26th July, his birthday, in his hunting grounds. It seems that he went out in the early morning accompanied by a few Malays and Sultas, and after a short while the dogs brought a wild pig to bay. Mr. White rushed forward at the same time, and in the excitement of the moment, it seems that he lost his hold of the hounds, whether temporarily or permanently. If it is intended that the present state of things should be permanent then I do think the person in charge of the Colonial Secretary was laid on the table stating that circumstances had recently directed the Acting Governor's attention to the condition of the cemetery and asking the Board to make recommendations for their regulation. A minute by Dr. Canfield said it seemed to be indefinite as to what was responsible for the maintenance of the good condition of the cemetery. In a minute by Mr. White, he referred to the fact that His Excellency had already conceded the master and had come to the conclusion that there was nothing in the sanitary condition of the cemetery to call for interference. The Board could only interfere on sanitary grounds.

Mr. FRANCIS said the Board had no power over the Chinese Government, but was unable to point out anything insanitary in connection with the cemeteries. He had no doubt that the cemeteries required regulation but the Board had power to make any but sanitary by-laws.

The President said that in the course of an investigation he had to make himself he had reason to suppose that the Chinese Government had given the Chinese a right to do what they liked in the cemeteries.

The Penang Star said that in the course of an investigation he had to make himself he had reason to suppose that the Chinese Government had given the Chinese a right to do what they liked in the cemeteries.The *H. H. M. S. Redoubt returned to Singapore on the 25th ult. from a cruise to Christmas guard came to take the prisoner away. We all went on guard at 8.30 p.m. and then we took off our boots and settled down for the night to guard a man named McHugh. I know the Man. I know the way the guard is mounted there. The guard always take off their boots and put on light pair of slippers so in the Military Hospital at 11.30 p.m. We know the prisoner is guilty of walking in his sleep. I remember him doing so on two occasions. I remember him having a fall over a verandah and his legs broken to the hospital. The prisoner walked away quietly with me, but I should say it was what is odd. In fact, I saw the guard come up and I asked him if he had his boots on or off that night. The guard took them away about twenty minutes afterwards. The prisoner was lying asleep on his bed at the time, and when he was wanted I looked for his boots for him.

At this stage his Worship remanded the case till Tuesday next at 10 a.m. when the evidence of Dr. Gurney will be adduced.

THE FAIR AFFAIR AT WANCHAI.

Loc. XI, 23 hawks, and Wong Fuk 18, coolie, were charged with others not in custody, with wilfully and maliciously causing the death of Wong Yung San, in Tai Wong Street, on the 29th July.

The Inspector Swanton said—I charge the prisoner with wilfully and maliciously causing the death of another named Wong Yung San, in Tai Wong Street, on the 29th July. The defendant died in the Tung-Yu Hospital on the 31st July.

It is now known that the prisoner was severely ill at that time, allowing him in one case to die.

THE "SIGNALMAN" ABOARD.

There are probably about a million men employed in various capacities on the Railways of Great Britain—number large enough, if they were soldiers, to overrun Europe. Upon the intelligence, fidelity, and physical condition of this vast army depends the lives of the millions of men who are daily sent to and from London and overseas. Responsibility, however, to one of them may result in a disaster which would put hundreds of families in mourning. Accordingly it is safe and swift conveyance from point to point, the public service realises, that the following brief narrative, which is strictly true, will therefore be read with interest.

On the Midland Railway, twenty-three miles south of Carlisle, there is a station called Calthwaite. There is there a signal-box in which Signalman Andrew Argos is to be found on duty daily. As is the case with all other signal-boxes, this one contains the levers and the usual complicated electric and mechanical contrivances for receiving and sending signals. Mr. Argos is a tall, dark, hairy man, and takes his duties without leaving his box. He is a sturdy man of thirty-five in good health, and no complaint has ever been made against him by the Company or by the public; yet an incident occurred a few years ago that came near depriving him of his position and life. For some time he had not felt well, the want and need of quietude and rest being the chief cause of his condition, which could give him no rest, and as described it was "as though to moving and twisting round and round." The doctor told him frankly that it was a symptom of a still more radical complaint brought on by too much confinement, and by his irregular habits of eating and sleeping, and that he had better resign. But this was easier said than done. He had a family to support, and couldn't afford the luxury of a vacation. He knew no other business, and could not risk the loss of his place. His work was always done, however, no matter how he felt. But it is only fair to say that he had many anxious hours over it. His silent, watchful, head-downed, covered-to-be-inconveniences and dyspepsia, it was evident, were due to the physical exhaustion of applying himself to those who were serious trouble with his kidneys and bladder. "It is," said the doctor to the Signalman, "the result of the condition of your digestion. Your blood is poisoned by your stomach, and every organ of the body is crippled."

This was a miserable outlook for Argos, who had to leave his post, and go home to his wife. His look held, though as well as he could, and kept it up until one morning several weeks afterwards. He was in his box as usual when of sudden a sharp pain shot through him as though he had been stabbed with a knife. He tumbled down on the locker in the signal-box and lay there all the afternoon in semi-distracted agony. The doctor was summoned, and finally, after a long and difficult discussion, it was decided that the after-symptoms in the neighbour were numerous, and the suffering man was put into a trap and taken to his house half a mile away. There he lay ill for weeks, part of the time unconscious. When the physicians had avowedly got to the end of their resources it was agreed that the Signalman's end was only a matter of a very little time.

The doctor, however, the after-symptoms in the neighbour were numerous, and the suffering man was put into a trap and taken to his house half a mile away. There he lay ill for weeks, part of the time unconscious. When the physicians had avowedly got to the end of their resources it was agreed that the Signalman's end was only a matter of a very little time.

Two or three years before, while Argos was feeling the earlier symptoms of his disorder, he had taken a medicine that had ben him; getting better, he put the bottle aside, until half full, and forgot it altogether.

Now, as he was almost in a dying condition, his memory faded up one day, and he distinctly remembered the bottle he had put away. He then thought of the doctor. The Signalman began using it again, and to the astonishment of neighbours and doctors, in a few days was able to get out of doors. We may mention that the man in question was the well-known preparation, Mother Seign's Curative Syrup, although to advertise the article is not the chief motive for this little narrative. As a matter of fact, Signalman Argos kept on doctoring himself, receiving the same treatment as when it may. He went back to his box, and, though this incident is omitted in order that the reader may know more of the character and experience of a large and faithful body of public servants.
